

Teacher's Pre- and Post-Program Visit Guide

Program	Life on the Ohio River
Grade Level	Grades 3-5
Time	50 minutes
Location	Cincinnati History Museum

Program Objectives

- Students will make choices on an imaginary journey down the Ohio River from Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania to Cincinnati, Ohio.
- Students will explore what the Ohio River has meant to Native Americans and early settlers.
- Students will observe and identify how lifestyles and transportation have changed along the Ohio River.

Program Description

Take a ride down the Ohio River and learn what life was like for Native Americans and early settlers. Explore how the river has affected, and been affected by, changes in lifestyle and travel throughout history. This program includes a guided experience in the Cincinnati History Museum's Cincinnati: Settlement to 1860s exhibit.

Major Vocabulary and concepts

Ohio River	steamboats	Native Americans
keelboats	early settlers	flatboats

Ideas for pre-visit activities

- Find the Ohio River on a map of the United States. How many states does the Ohio River flow through? What states are they?
- Make a timeline for your state. In what years did Native Americans live in your area? When did European settlers first begin to live in your state? What significance did the Ohio River make in their decision to settle there?
- Read a story or personal account of someone living sometime around the 1830s. Compare and contrast their daily life with your daily activities.

Ideas for post-visit activities

- Visit the Cincinnati History Museum, especially the Settlement to 1860s, the Flatboat Gallery and the Public Landing exhibits.
- Visit the Museum of Natural History & Science, especially the Pathways to Change exhibit.
- Have students research and write a story, journal or diary from the perspective of either a Native American or early settler living in the Ohio River region.
- Study the Ohio River. Create a model of a section of the Ohio River system that includes models of dams and locks. How do the dams change the river?
